DEPARTMENT REVIEW – PASSED LEGISLATION

BLUE SHEET

Blue Sheets are a department's final bill analysis and provides the Commissioner an opportunity to weigh in on legislation that has passed, with a recommendation to the Governor on action that may be taken– to enact the bill, to veto the bill, or to allow the bill to become Law without signature (LWOS). Much of the information requested in the Blue Sheet can be taken from the department's bill analyses (BA), which were initially submitted at the time the bill was introduced and updated throughout the legislative process.

Blue sheets are due to the GLO three days after the enrolled bill appears on basis, or sooner by request.

The Department of Education and Early Development recommends the bill be allowed to become law without signature and would defer to the Department of Health regarding the administration's final action recommendation, as the primary policy objectives, implementation impacts, and anticipated public health benefits of the legislation fall within the Department of Health's area of expertise and mission.

HB 27 incorporates provisions from SB 20 related to CPR instruction in public schools. CPR instruction is a valuable lifesaving skill, and the majority of Alaska school districts already provide CPR instruction through locally developed health education programs and partnerships with community organizations, health providers, and emergency response personnel.

The Department of Education and Early Development maintains that curriculum and instructional decisions are generally best made at the local level rather than through statewide mandates. While the department does not typically support statutory curriculum requirements, the bill provides flexibility by requiring instruction only "if practicable" and allows instruction to be delivered by qualified community partners, medical personnel, or certificated educators.

From a public health and emergency preparedness perspective, increasing student exposure to hands-only CPR training may provide meaningful long-term community benefits that may outweigh the department's concerns regarding state-directed curriculum requirements. The bill has no fiscal impact to the department.

What does this Bill do?

In addition to providing a succinct bill summary, please also consider the following: Why is this bill needed? How does it specifically change department programs? What is the anticipated impact on the public, the private sector? Does this bill align with the priorities of Governor Dunleavy?

This bill expands the Department of Health's authority related to major medical emergencies involving heart attack and stroke care. The bill also incorporates provisions requiring the Department of Education and Early Development to adopt curricula for hands-only cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) instruction in public schools and determine the grade levels that will receive instruction. Public schools serving those grade levels shall offer the instruction if practicable.

Detailed Sectional Analysis

The full sectional analysis of the bill should be completed by the lead agency. Other departments should include an analysis for sections of the bill affecting their agencies.

Section 1: This section amends AS 14.30.360(a) to include cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) instruction within the list of health education topics districts are encouraged to provide as part of a K–12 health education program.

Section 2: This section requires the Department of Education and Early Development to adopt curricula for hands-only CPR instruction and determine the grade levels that will receive instruction. The section allows instruction to be provided by individuals holding a CPR instructor certificate, emergency medical services certification, or a current Alaska teacher certificate. Public schools serving required grade levels shall offer the instruction if practicable. The curricula must align with current national evidence-based CPR guidelines.
